Monuments to Mayor Rohr.—The Lamps, by which the streets of Goodson are lighted every night. May he shine like unto them.

Wanted Badly.—Mayor Rohr to throw up Moore Street before the mud sets in, and while it can be packed down hard during the autumn.

Sorley Wanted.—A branch walk from the main stem at Mr. Temple's to the Methodist Church. Who will go in on it?

Mrs. Chancener's School will be, after the present week, Mountain View.
There are upwards of forty young ladies and girls at this school now. Miss Payne will also remove her music class to Mountain View.

High Prices.—At a recent sale of the personal property of the late James Adair, in Giles county, calves of last spring, were sold at $19 45, and yearlings past brought $28 90. The sale was on twelve months' time. So says the Pearisburg Gazette.

The Wise County Proceedings.—A friend found on last Tuesday, on a side-walk of our town, a letter from Maj. Norwicks, addressed to the editors of this paper, containing a copy of the proceedings of the meeting held in Wise county, on the 29th day of September, at which delegates to the Norfolk Convention were appointed. Our surprise is as to "how the mischief it got there," and we are sorry we did not receive the enclosures in time.

"The oldest inhabitant" is dead Mrs.
Agness Woods died on Monday last, near Union, Tenn., aged nearly ninety-one years. She was born on the 12th day of November, 1797, and was an exemplary member of the Christian Church for over half a century.

Thrashing Stones.—This pernicious practice on the part of boys on our streets resisted quite recently in a serious injury to a little child of Mr. Keller of our town. His child was sitting in his front door, and a stone thrown by a boy glanced and struck it in the forehead, inflicting a very serious wound and almost resulting in instant death.

Happy Event.—Last Thursday evening Trinity Church, Episcopal, of our town, was the scene of a happy gathering of friends to witness the marriage of Dr. T. B. Brown, of Abingdon, Va., to Miss Cornelia Peyton, one of the most beautiful and accomplished of Staunton's daughters. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. Latin, Pastor, and many and hearty were the congratulations of the friends of the happy couple. —Val. Virginian.

As we Expected.—that bold enemy of society, Vaughn, who was recently sent from Abingdon to the Penitentiary for the cold blooded attempt to assassinate young Holloway, a student on his way to Emory and Henry College, escaped from the State Prison on the 1st inst., and succeeded in getting to Baltimore, where, for want of bread and friends, and refuge, he enlisted in the army. He was assigned to Fort McHenry, where he was recognized by several persons, and steps were taken which have landed him again in Wardwell's care. A flaw in the indictment saved him from the gallows, which would have better comported with his deserts than imprisonment. He will escape again.

Improvements.—An excellent plank walk has been made on Moore street, Goodson, reaching from Main Street entirely across the bottom to Mr. Temple's corner. This exceedingly much needed improvement is due to Mayor Rohr and a few private citizens of Goodson, and you may count their number on your fingers.

The Grecian Bend refuses to bend to public opinion and has actually appeared in Bristol. Being ignorant of the peculiarities of this innovation, we at first attributed the deformity to what we supposed might be the effect of stone-bruses or perhaps an attack of cramp in the epigastric region. As the innovation made its debut in the person of some of our most lovely and accomplished young ladies, we were prompted to spring to their relief, but to our surprise we met with a repulse which, however, manifested itself in that exact attitude in which we had read our most terrible lessons in female dignity and displeasure. The moving beauty fled from the pursuit of our gaze, but has again and again passed our door. Like sectarianism it grows and flourishes most where it encounters resistance. We despise but shall yield to it. Bend on frail flowers in the Paradise of man. The hills of the valley are sweeter when they bend beneath their floral glories.
Stop on and conquer on. To-day the lust of man's depravity may soil your fair hands. To-morrow he bows again beneath your sceptre. Bend on ye adorn and rule the world below and shall enslave the world of rest above.

Terebinthine Euphorbia Forest Depot.
—A very appalling accident occurred near Elk Creek bridge, on Saturday evening, by the explosion of the engine Washington, to which were attached about six coach loads of the returning Norfolk delegation. The mail and the other extra trains had passed ahead, and the Washington was making very rapid time, and when she exploded was on the down grade near the bridge. A portion of the Bristol delegation was on board at the time, and they describe the shock as being of indescribable violence.

The train was brought to an instantaneous stop, the lights were all extinguished and a scene of the utmost alarm and confusion ensued. The engineer, Jerome Stout, and the fireman, Wm.
Beckham, were blown forward, the one to the right and the other to the left of the road, a distance of several hundred yards and instantly killed. Owing to the darkness their bodies could not be found until morning. A boy who was riding on the cow catcher with a red lantern was thrown some distance but not injured. He returned to the scene of the wreck the next morning. Mr.
Stout was a refugee from Limestone, Tenn. His mutilated remains were sent home on Monday, in charge of Mr.
Gordon J. Williams. He was unmarried.
Mr. Beckham leaves a wife and two children, in the city of Lynchburg, to bear the crushing blow of his untimely end. The cars were very much damaged and the three front ones were thrown from the track. The ladies' car was next the engine and was only prevented from being upset by being jammed into the one in rear of it. The accident occurred on an embankment probably 20 feet high, and if the cars had been upon the loss of life must have been considerable.

The Convocation of S. W. Virginia will be held at Emmanuel Church during next week, beginning on Wednesday the 28th. A number of distinguished ministers will be in attendance, and service may be expected several times each remaining day of the week.
Gen. Pendleton, of Lexington is President of the convocation. Now improvements are being made in the interior of Emmanuel Church, through the energy and liberality of Rev. E. H. Ingle.
They will add largely to the beauty and elegance of the building, as well as to its convenience.

The Norfolk Frolic.—The Oysters of Norfolk are said to be the best in the world, but we understand they are "distinguished" with many of the delegates from the "hill country," and they entertain a higher veneration now for the virtue called moderation. An obscure rural reaches us that one of the Bristol delegation fell as he was leaving the city, and some one had the temerity to pour a glass of whisky on his head while he was getting up. Conviviality seemed to be the order of the journey, and we trust that, while Norfolk has less whisky and less oysters, she has more admirers, and will have more direct trade than any city except Bristol.

The Ballasting of the Va. & Tenn.
Railroad, and the re-laying of it with new "T" iron, is progressing rapidly at this end of the road. But for the failure of contractors to comply with their undertaking in furnishing the iron, the track would have been re-laid to a point beyond Abingdon. The rail row used is the Fish Bar, and trains pass over it without any of the jolting attributable to the joints usually made with common iron.

We have seen in late numbers of Va. country papers the word "tribble," and even "tribble." Arise! my Singin' Drunkard. —Notice Virginian.
If Moses will examine Hannan's paper he will see "statute" used repeatedly in describing the statues on the Washington monument. But as the laws of nature are to be reversed by the statutes of men, and we are asked to forsake our own race and kindred for the sons of Africa, we move for the erection of a statue to commemorate the statutes of a party composed of divines and sinners who could be loyal to both governments and true only to the Union.

Demorest for November has appeared upon our table. It is the finest number we have yet seen of this unparalleled magazine. The watch-word of Demorest has from the beginning been "onward and upward," and to-day it has no successful competitor in America. Besides the elegant fashion plates it is always accompanied with a lot of superb patterns, full sized. It contains everything that is valuable in the way of dress. Price, $3 00.

Demorest's Young America is intended to amuse and interest the young—It is embellished with beautiful tinted plates and puzzles, and reading that will entertain not only the young but the old.

The Little Corporal for November, for Boys and Girls, is before us. It is beautifully bound and is radiant with everything interesting to the young—Subscribers now for twelve months will receive the twelve numbers for 1896, and also the Nov. and Dec., 1896—thus getting two numbers extra. Price, $1.

The Sentinial Magazine, Vol. 1, No. 1.; a literary and educational monthly, by M. Hazledorn, Box 901, Richmond, Va. The October number is embellished with a most superb colored plate of the Japan Lily, and a number of cuts beside. It is a choste and elegant monthly, and we hope it will achieve the success it merits.— Price $1.50 per annum.

The Southern Planter and Farmer.
Richmond, at $2.00; The Maryland Farmer, Baltimore, at $1.50; The Farmer's Gazette, by S. Bassett French, Richmond, at $1.00; and the Southern Cultivator, at Athens, Ga. at $2.00, are all out for October. And it is well worth the cost for every farmer in our land to take one, but every one of them —$6.50 for the entire list. They certainly abound in the most valuable and varied information.
